About Me

Pamela JB Stone, MD, FACOG, FACS, specializes in caring for women with all stages of cancer in the reproductive organs. She is triple board certified in obstetrics and gynecology, gynecologic oncology, and palliative medicine and hospice. Her passion for women's health and gynecologic oncology stems from a personal journey caring for her mother, a labor and delivery room nurse who had ovarian cancer.

Dr. Stone works with a team of medical specialists to offer patients coordinated care in a multidisciplinary environment. Her extended education and training allow Dr. Stone to care for patients throughout their journey – before, during and after cancer diagnosis. The range of services she offers includes minimally invasive and robotic surgery.

Philosophy of Care

Dr. Stone finds her inspiration for women's health care from her patients. She builds personal relationships with them that are based on trust, honesty and candor. By working together, she better understands the challenges posed by their health issues and designs individualized treatment strategies that help them achieve their unique and personal goals.
